University profile	Université catholique de Louvain (UCL) welcomes more than 30,000 students in seven locations in Brussels and Wallonia. Its main campus is in the pedestrianised city of Louvain-la-Neuve. UCL offers courses in all disciplines, from bachelor's degree to doctoral degree level, as well as many lifelong learning programmes. With a Nobel Prize, 21 Prix Francqui (the 'Belgian Nobel') and many other honours, UCL offers an education fuelled by solid research. Since its creation, UCL has not only been open to the world; it has reached out to the world and invited it in: 25% of its teaching staff, 40% of its research staff and 20% of its student body is international. This openness is also reflected in its many exchange partnerships with universities worldwide, active participation in international networks and long-held tradition of cooperation with developing countries. Placing 149th in the 2016 QS ranking of the world's universities, UCL is ranked first among Belgian francophone universities. It is also one of Europe's most well established universities, having been founded in 1425. Erasmus, Gerardus Mercator and Andreas Vesalius are among the greats to have graced its halls; it's where Georges Lemaître formulated his Big Bang theory and Christian de Duve conducted research that won him the 1974 Nobel Prize in Medicine.
